The peroxisome proliferator activated receptor gamma (PPAR γ) is a ligand activated transcription factor expressed in dendritic cells (DCs), where it exerts anti-inflammatory responses against TLR4-induced inflammation. Recently, microRNA-511 (miR-511) has also emerged as a key player in controlling TLR4-mediated signalling, and in regulating the function of DCs.

A binding death benefit nomination is a way to override this trustee discretion. Put simply, a binding death benefit nomination is a legally binding nomination that allows you to advise the trustee who is to receive your superannuation benefit in the event of your death. In order for a nomination to be binding, it must be 'valid'.

What is a binding death benefit nomination?

The part of the spike that binds to its receptor, ACE2, is called the receptor binding domain (RBD). To mitigate SARS-CoV-2 infection, many artificially-produced antibodies compete with ACE2 for RBD binding, directly blocking the ACE2:RBD binding event required for viral entry.

Severe acute respiratory syndrome coronavirus 2 (SARS-CoV-2) is decorated with spikes, and viral entry into cells is initiated when these spikes bind to the host angiotensin-converting enzyme 2 (ACE2) receptor. Many monoclonal antibody therapies in development target the spike proteins. Cao et al. designed small, stable proteins that bind tightly to the spike and block it from binding to ACE2.

De novo design of picomolar SARS-CoV-2 miniprotein ...

Targeting the interaction between the SARS-CoV-2 Spike protein and the human ACE2 receptor is a promising therapeutic strategy. We designed inhibitors using two de novo design approaches. Computer generated scaffolds were either built around an ACE2 helix that interacts with the Spike receptor binding domain (RBD), or docked against the RBD to identify new binding modes, and their amino acid ...
