Man Bites Dog (film) - Wikipedia

The phrase man bites dog is a shortened version of an aphorism in journalism that describes how an unusual, infrequent event (such as a man biting a dog) is more likely to be reported as news than an ordinary, everyday occurrence with similar consequences, such as a dog biting a man. An event is usually considered more newsworthy if there is something unusual about it; a commonplace event is ...

Man bites dog - Wikipedia

“When a dog bites a man, that is not news, because it happens so often. But if a man bites a dog, that is news.” The Sun always waited for the man to bite the dog. In 1921 Arthur Brisbane mentioned the saying again, and this time he ascribed the words to Amos Cummings.
